

Santino + Elsa

An astrological portrait of love: the waters of Cancer are nourishing the Mother Earth

Elsa Gambacorta's Single Astrological Report

The Cancer Moon is a very motherly, nurturing energy. Others are likely to see Elsa as a mother even if they've never known her before.

She has a strong attachment to possessions and is possessive of her partners. She loves bargains and discounts and is always thinking about how to get the best deal. Her love language is food.

There is a gentle, feminine energy. A sensitive soul; may be anxiety-prone.

She has the ability to calculate risks with lightning speed and act accordingly. She may be gentle, but she can take it from zero to one hundred quickly, and at will.

Her yin and her yang are in balance; that is, her giving to receiving ratio is almost even, with slightly more receiving energy. But that doesn't mean she isn't generous. She has a very loving heart and knows how to get what she wants. In most cases, the things she wants are already magnetically attracted to her, so she doesn't need to do much.

She can be frank, spontaneous, and she can't hide if she doesn't like you. She may be blunt because she is honest. Respect is very important to her.

She has a deep attachment to memories, traditions, and sentimental objects. She values equality and hates hypocrisy, double standards, or unfair systems.

Her drive is very fixed, and she can do the same task for a very long time without getting tired or bored; yet her world philosophy is about freedom and innovation. Philosophically, she is ahead of her time.

If someone ever thought she was being controlling, it's only because she was being protective.

The Santino Report

Santino is a "ride or die" personality; this is someone who is very loyal. He shows love by playing tricks or teasing, and may have a bit of a rebellious side.

Where respect is most important to Elsa, Santino needs reciprocation. He is drawn to art, highly intuitive and sensitive to the emotional atmosphere in a room.

He is a lover of information and conversation; curious, chatty, and can switch between topics easily. He is a great storyteller, even if he may be exaggerating some of the details.

This is someone with very harmonized masculine and feminine energies, and should be in touch with his feminine side. He has a happy nature, and may have had to learn the lesson of who to trust.

He has an interesting worldview and philosophy and it may seem contradictory at times, but that is only because he is skilled at seeing multiple sides of a situation and arguing from any angle.

In general, he doesn't like to admit mistakes. He needs stimulation and loves instant gratification. Likes to stir the pot.

The Couple Report

They are a complementary pair with very strong love energies toward one another. Santino's Gemini heart gives him a strong affinity for marriage, especially to a fire energy such as Aries, and Elsa's Taurus heart feels nourished by Santino's Sun.

She loves his mind and his emotions, and he loves everything about her. Both Santino and Elsa are very nurturing, and Elsa makes Santino feel secure.

These are two minds that think very well together. The minds are harmonized and they can think solve problems easily together. Although, Elsa's Taurus mind may have trouble understanding Santino's Libra worldview at times.

Together they are a full spectrum of the elements, embodying fire, water, earth, and air, all at the same time. They balance one another out.

They are both "starters."

These are two people who can get a lot done.
