

The Sharnjit Report

Drawn to power and transformation, Sharnjit is intense, private, and emotionally deep. She knows herself, loves herself, and is very connected with her mind and her philosophy. Early in life, she may have felt oppressed, or unfeminine. She may feel like she's been carrying a burden.

She is physically attracted to status, money, and pleasing aesthetics. Sharnjit might be suspicious of her lovers, but that is only because she is loyal to the point of obsession once trust is earned.

This is someone who is protective of their pride or inner circle. She is expressive, proud, and dramatic in a playful way. If somebody wrongs her, she won't think twice before cutting them off. She may hold a grudge or have trouble forgiving true betrayals.

The emotions are quick to heat up when desire is activated; the same goes for conflict or aggression. The anger style is not explosive at first, but smolders and builds toward a strong finish. Aggression is more calculating than impulsive.

Sharnjit is social, diplomatic, and relationship-focused. She might be people-pleasing, but she is self-aware of how she is perceived. She is honest and will tell you if you don't like something.

To others, she appears independent, unconventional, or future-focused. She might appear detached or rebellious; like she needs space in relationships; a good leader; magnetic; mysterious. She is hard to read and yet has an uncanny ability to read others.

Sharnjit is highly intuitive, and good at reading hidden motives and subtext. She is a good secret keeper. Her actions can be deeply healing or deeply wounding depending on how she uses her power.

In her career, she is highly ambitious, responsible, and goal-oriented. This is someone with a great amount of discipline and a strong sense of duty and obligation to family, work, or community.

She values structure, rules, and clear hierarchies. While she is respectful of authority, she also desires it and is capable of fulfilling her ambitions. She is so driven in fact, that there may be an overstimulated drive or a sense of being internally over-pressurized. Her talkative, social side is competing with her grounded, meticulous, productive side. Her drive is a major theme in her life.

The internal conflict suggests contradiction between softness, control, intensity, and image. There is a battle between her heart, her mind, her philosophy, and her emotional needs. This internal friction may create emotional instability.

She is charming and very loyal. As a mother, she would be a lion; strongly protective of her loved ones and inner circle. In addition to her drive, her intensity, intense relationships, and vibrant social life are also themes in her life. Financial debt may also be a theme.

The Dan Report

You make each other feel secure ♁ ♃ + ☉ ♃

* Both charm, humor, or sweetness to avoid heavy emotional confrontations = ♁♃

You drive him wild sexually ♃ ♂♀♂+♂

* Anyone born between 1975 and 1981 was born in a generation that amplifies Scorpio qualities –
Whatever it is that makes you a Scorpio, you need to lean into that ♃ ♂

He ignites a mothering, nurturing side in you; actually you both have a tendency to want to nurture each other which is really nice. He loves this bold, nurturing energy but at the same time, he is uncomfortable with it if it seeps into the bedroom.

The Leo Moon is an emotional lion, mothering nurturing figure that is rubbing Scorpio the wrong way, so any emotional distress that you might feel being caused by this energy, he is feeling too. His friends are probably noticing it and it looks like you are "bad for him" but it's a perfectly natural interaction that could occur in any relationship. The important thing and the solution is to just be mindful of this and work on keeping emotions in check.

The second issue in your relationship is how your Aquarius Rising sign makes others perceive you, including your ex. Your Rising sign makes others see you as independent, unconventional, future-focused; detached or rebellious; someone with a strong need for personal freedom and space in relationships; someone who might be unpredictable, doing the opposite of what others expect; a good leader. He doesn't want these qualities. He is being overanalytical about them and they are turning him off.

The social, talkative, bubbly side (HE HAS THIS SIDE too) is competing with the grounded, driven, meticulous side. Also the Libra Saturn is somewhat scared of the Capricorn Mars, so he's hyper-aware of it and it's causing friction. This grounded, driven, and meticulous side is good for the relationship in many ways, but try not to overdo it. At least, if you are okay compromising future rewards in a possible career for a life with this man.

You as well have a Libra Saturn so you might understand the feeling better than me. This interaction could also make you apprehensive to completing your goals, so in the spirit of Libra: it's important to strike a balance between work and life.

* Both have high standards

* Both flirts whether they want to or not = ♁♃

* Both need partnership or close connection to feel complete = ♁♃

He still loves you

You love how he expresses emotions, how in touch with his feminine side he is, how he isn't afraid, and in general you just love his heart

You guys socialize really well together and have a philosophy of life that matches, which is important in a long-term relationship
